The attention of many has been attracted to the fact that during the recent insurance investigation in New York such companies as the Connecticut Mutual Life Insurance Company has constantly forged ahead, and was not affected by the disclosures that have been made in the workings of so many of the old line companies. This com-pany has been able to show a handsome increase in the insurance written during the past year; in the total insurance in force; in the income from premiums; in the assets and surplus, and of especial interest to members, the fact that the earnings will enable the company to maintain the present scale of dividends during this year.

In regard to the financial condition of the company the last statement shows that with over $66,000,000 assets, there is a surplus to policy holders of $4,897,647. Since the company was organized it has paid to policy holders the enormous sum of $240,-738.253, which is $2.497.023 more than the premiums received from them.

AGED RESIDENT DEAD

Last of a Noted Family, Formerly of South Carolina. The death of Mrs. Sarah Elizabeth Butterfield occurred yesterday, after a brief illness, at the residence of her son, Mr. Frank E. Butterfield, in Randle Park, Congress Heights. Mrs. Butterfield was seventy-four years old and was a native of Charleston. S. C. She married in that city and continued to live there until the Charleston earthquake, when the family removed to Birmingham, Ala., where Mrs. Butterfield made her home until last August. She came here at that time to visit her son in Congress Heights.

Mrs. Butterfield was of a French family-La Coste by name-and it is related of her brother, Major J. C. La Coste, that he mounted and fired the first gun of the civil war on Fort Sumter. Her father was a sea-faring man, who brought to this country, it is stated, one of the last cargoes of slaves reaching here, and who became involved in difficulty with the authorities at the time over the matter by reason of some law that had been placed in operation while he was crossing the high seas. She is stated to be the last of her family, her brother, Major La Coste, dying a month since at Birmingham, Ala. Five children, two sons and three daughters, survive Mrs. Butterfield. The former are Mr. Le Roy A. Butterfield of Birmingham, Ala., and Mr. Frank E. Butterfield of Congress Heights. The daughters are Mrs. Lillian M. Becker and Mrs. V. Alexander, both of Washington, and Mrs. J. B. Smith of Gadsden, Ala.

Funeral services over the remains will be neld this morning at 9 o'clock at the of Mr. Butterfield, in Congress Heights. Rev. J. A. Gilfillian, the clergyman in charge of the Esther Memorial Protestant Episcopal Chapel at Congress Heights, will conduct the ceremony, after which Mr. But terfield will accompany the body to Birming ham, where it will be placed, after services at an Episcopal church there, in Oak Hill

It is alleged that Shelton stole three guns worth $300 from his employer, Robert A. Kantz, a farmer near Hyattsville. It is also asserted that the prisoner sold a gun for Charles H. Meader, neighbor of his employer, and neglected o account for the proceeds.

Shelton was staying at the Central Union Mission about a year ago, when he was employed by Mr. Kantz, and until recently worked for him. Deputy Sheriff Vincent George county and complained that Shel-ton had disposed of the guns in this city. Detectives Parham and O'Brien made an investigation of the case and recovered the guns yesterday. The three valuable firearmes had been pawned for $60, and the detectives took charge of them for use as Ipper Marlboro next April.

Shelton admitted his guilt. Two of the guns he took while he was living at the house of Mr. Kantz and the third one he procured during the absence of the occu-pants of the house. The prisoner will be turned over to the Maryland authorities to-

At the time of her arrest she told Detective Flather that she was innocent, and said she knew who had stolen the watch and chain. "The other girl looks very much like me.

she informed the officer, "and wears a costume very much like mine. We each wear big black hat, and I can readily understand how the man who saw me thought I was the woman who had been described."
Detective Flather was satisfied that the woman under arrest was not the one who had taken the timeplece, but he had been sent to bring her to this city, and there was nothing for him to do other than to obey orders. This he did, but, as stated, Miss Graham was released shortly after her arrival here.

LOCAL INDUSTRIES.

Maj. Fred S. Hodgson, a local business man interested in the welfare of the capital city and also prominent in local military circles, after reading the arguments of James M. Wood in favor of the estabon Biltmore street between 18th and 19th lishment of factories in this city, published in last Sunday's Star, is of the opinion that street. It is between the residences of Mr. Mr. Wood's statements tend to "rather prejudice the average citizen against the proposition." To support his stand Maj.

> Hodgson says: "For instance, Mr. Wood proposes to amend the smoke law by abolishing its apa proceeding that would serve as a wedge to force leniency in other and more important localities. He points out that professional men would have more clients and patients. Additional sick for the doctor to attend and a larger number of clients for the lawyer to defend are not reasons in favor of factories coming here. Mr. Wood vanced rates for household commodities would benefit the few to the detriment of the many.'

The general idea of turning this city into a great commercial center does not please Maj. Hodgson.

Building Operations.

"During the last decade," he said in an interview with a Star reporter yesterday, "Washington has increased in population in greater ratio than ever before. Immense flats, great apartment houses and row after row of dwellings attest to the phenomenal growth of the city. Thousands of our own citizens do not realize the magnitude of the building operations and property transfers now being effected. The character of houses built evidence the fact that our city is growing in quality as well as quantity. Officials upon whom de volve the enactment of laws governing the progress and development of the nation's capital should insist that commercial enterprises should not conflict with the lines of procedure which have made Washington the most beautiful city in the world and an ideal place of residence.
"Those who have discussed the proposition to establish manufactories in the District of Columbia have failed to submit opinions as to the effect, sociologically, on the community interested. With the advent of the factory would come a class of peo-ple in personnel different from the workhas visited nearly all the large manufacturing cities of the country, and has noted the superiority in appearance and deportment of the Washington workingmen over a similar element of the manufacturing districts. There is a difference in manner and dress of the working girl of the capital city and like qualities of the working girl of factory towns. The young working element of our city are the sons and daughters of well-paid laborers, mechanics and clerks, and do not have to apply the most of their salaries to assist in taking care of large families. Consequently the young working people of Washington are enabled to use part of their pay to promote health and happiness.

"In manufacturing cities children are compelled to give up school at a very early age and seek employment, owing to the small pay received by their parents; disadvantages which account for their unfavorable comparison with the young working people of the District of Columbia.

Praise for Washington High School. equal to the educational product of the Washington high school. The boys from our schools, it is claimed, could find emwould not congressional influence be appolitical supporters?

"The locating here of factories would bring additional workmen and their families, thereby increasing the number of eligibles for employment in store, workshop and office. Accustomed to economical living, the new arrivals could work for less pay than is now received by the local employes. Such a condition would add to the number of applicants for work without increasing the means of employment thereby adding to the number of unemployed of our

"The population of the nation's capital should increase gradually and in the degree necessary to supply each individual with reciprocal wants. Washington is an educational center and the character of its peo-ple should harmonize with their environment. Manufacturing industries in the District of Columbia would be an incentive for large numbers of unemployed to seek work in our city. Scarcely a day passes with-out a number of men who claim to be in search of work being arrested while en-tering Washington. These unfortunates are either sent down or ordered to leave town. The advertisement of a 'New Washington with Manufactories' would cause an influx of men seeking work that would create a condition necessitating an increase in the public force, with a propor-tionate increase of duty.

In Case of Strikes.

"A huge manufacturing plant in this locality would place here a link in the chain which binds the laboring men in case of strikes. During the great strike of 1877 disorder was so pronounced in every manufacturing city that the authorities could not control the situation. For many days dur-ing the month of July Pittsburg was in the possession of an ungovernable mob. A other manufacturing cities. In Baltimore the 5th and 6th Regiments were ordered out. The 5th, though assailed by an angry mob, preserved its formation and marched to its destination with many men wounded by missles. The 6th left its armory amid a shower of stones, hurled by strike sympathizers, and attempted to march to the depot. The men became confused and de-moralized and began to fire. Company after company abandoned the column, until the entire regiment scattered and finally disbanded never to reassemble.

"During the strike period attended by loss of life and destruction of property in other cities Washington remained serene and tranquil. Do we want a Pittsburg intranquil. Do we want a Pittsburg industry transplanted in our city, with the attendant danger of strikes?

"A strike is not particular when it comes, and might arrive on the eve of Inauguration day. Washington is the convention city of the country, and those in authority should not permit conditions to be created which are liable to prevent the assembling of representative bodies within its borders.
Washington occupies a position to the Washington occupies a position to the country analogous to that of an office to an extensive manufacturing plant—an administrative factor, and as a city of ad-ministration it should be preserved from industrial disturbance."

GROUND BROKEN FOR RESIDENCE MAJ. F. S. HODGSON TALKS OF MOVEMENT IN CATHOLIC PAR-ISHES MEETS WITH SUCCESS.

> The success of an effort of members of the various Roman Catholic parishes of this city to establish a strong representative temperance society, branches of which may ultimately spread throughout the District, is assured, it is said, and those interested in the movement have, during the past week, received considerable encouragement from pastors of the local churches. A report of the work of the week will be made tonight at the regular meeting, which will be held in the Good Samaritan Home, on L street northwest near 13th street

Although the new society has been in existence but a month it has already a membership of nearly one hundred men, and tonight it is expected that many new members will be added to the roster. Mr. Daniel Kelly, who has for many years been connected with the Catholic temperance movement of the archdiocese of Philadelphia, and who is one of the workers in the local organization, will make a report upon the progress his committee is making in the effort to affiliate the District organization with the Catholic Total Abstinence Unior of America.

A committee having the work of framing a constitution to govern the body will also submit its report. President Thomas Maloney said last night to a representative of The Star:

"When we started this good work with a handful of men on Sunday, January 7, 1 felt that our movement would meet with the approval of our clergy. One of our most prominent Catholic laymen, Mr. William F. Downey, honored our little gathering with his presence and made himself one of us. He not only did this, but he voluntarily suggested that we hold our meeting in his new building."

Lecture in Aid of Newsboys' Home and Children's Aid Association.

Mr. Dwight Elmendorf, it is announced, will deliver his lecture, entitled "Climbing the High Alps," Friday afternoon, February 9, at 4:30 o'clock, at the New National Theater. The proceeds will be turned over to the Newsboys' Home and Children's Aid Association.

The work which the organization mentioned has accomplished in past years, it is declared, commends itself to every one familiar with its scope. The association not only gives to working boys a delightful home during the winter, where they enjoy a great many comforts, which they would otherwise be deprived of, but it also provides reading rooms, a gymnasium and a swimming tank and during the summer months establishes a camp just outside of the city limits, near Chevy Chase, where for three months the boys may enjoy outdoor life. The home is said to be in need of funds at this time, as its appropriation has been cut from $1,000 to $500.
